

Kingdom Builders

2022 PROJECT GUIDE

“ Good will come to those who are generous and lend freely, who conduct their affairs with justice.

- PSALM 112:5

WHY KINGDOM BUILDERS?

Have you ever thought about wanting to do more but didn't know where to start? Do you ever think about what you could do to make a larger impact in the world? Do you want to leave an eternal legacy? Many, if not most, would answer "YES" to all these questions. If you were one of them, we have a solution.

Kingdom Builders.

Kingdom Builders is a generosity initiative—above and beyond your regular giving (tithing)—that helps to make a larger impact on the world by advancing the Kingdom of God.

Think about your next-door neighbor, a little girl in Cambodia, a widow in India—they (just like YOU) were created intentionally, purposefully, and uniquely in the image of God. Now, think about God and the gift He gave us: His one and only Son, Jesus. Because of Jesus, we've been promised the gift of salvation, grace, and mercy. The greatest barrier? The TRUTH and awareness that it exists.

This is the reason we have Kingdom Builders. It's our way to ensure that everyone, in every nation, has a chance to hear the Gospel.

AREAS OF IMPACT

x x x x x x x x x x x x x x x

THREE KEY AREAS OF IMPACT:

GLOBAL

Kingdom Builders helps to support a copious number of projects around the world that provide humanitarian aid, church planting assistance, and pastoral development. Our (your) assistance will help move these ministries forward, conquering new ground for HIS Kingdom.

LOCAL

God continues to bless our nation and helps us to grow the Church in the United States. By providing assistance in our own backyards, we're able to meet local community needs. This ultimately leads to the lost finding their way to eternity with Christ.

FUTURE CHRISTIAN LEADERS

We're committed to raising up the next generation. Kingdom Builders helps future Christian leaders to foster a love for God, the Bible, and the lost. We help to develop the next generation and provide opportunities like mission trips so they can know God, find freedom, discover purpose, and make an impact.

GLOBAL MISSIONS

A21 Organization

Partnering with A21 to help them accomplish their mission of abolishing slavery everywhere, forever. This organization is driven by a radical hope that the cycle of human trafficking can be broken, one life at a time, through programs that reach, rescue, and restore.

Amazima Primary School

$25,000

Discipling young, vulnerable Ugandan children by introducing them to Jesus Christ and giving them the tools needed to follow Him.

Dynamis World Ministries

Spreading the Gospel in Africa and Asia through twelve crusades. In conjunction with these Gospel crusades, several Schools of Ministry will be held for pastors and evangelists.

Every Home for Christ

Serving the Church by equipping and mobilizing believers to participate in sharing the truth and love of Jesus with every person and home on earth. This ministry operates in 152 countries, and we are supporting them in several of those locations.

Foundation for the Realization of Economic Empowerment

Creating income-generating opportunities for women in Zambia by developing a range of copper jewelry made by young women in Ng'ombe Compound, a peri-urban Lusaka community.

Global Ventures

Bringing teams into the regions of the world where most unreached people groups live and ministering the Gospel in parks, neighborhoods, and school assemblies.

Gospel Training International

Equipping leaders in Zambia, Thailand, Myanmar, Malaysia, and India by training them in Gospel truth mixed with practical ministry experience.

Heart4Mexico

$20,000

Getting children off the streets and into school is the goal. Heart4Mexico is a home for many wounded children. We are giving toward the development of the Boys' Home, which will have a complete kitchen, dining room, laundry, and storage areas. The bedrooms allow each child to finally have his own bed, closet, and shared bathroom.

Hearts in Action (Peru)

Helping the next generation to know and love God through evangelism, construction, medical outreaches, and more.

Hope for Hispaniola

Helping to strengthen local churches through evangelism, discipleship, and service within the community. We are helping them to build Phase 1 of the Santana Campus in the Dominican Republic, which includes a worship center, dining hall, medical clinic, apartments, and dorms for future missionaries.

House of Palms

$50,000

Providing ongoing care for the girls rescued from sex trade and resources to rescue more in Central India. These girls are part of the Banchada community, considered to be one of the lowest "castes" in the traditional Indian class system. They are deprived of basic human rights and are forced into sex trafficking. This girls' home ensures they are cared for in a safe environment away from the negative influences in their community. Most importantly, they learn about God's love.

The International School of Ministry

Providing undergraduate and graduate-level biblical education in ministry and the marketplace through video-based Bible schools. They will be adding three new languages in addition to more than 85 languages available, starting 100 new video Bible schools in Kenya, and sponsoring 1,000 future Christian leaders in order to grow God's Kingdom.

Living Water Ministries

The youth in Uganda are in serious need of a life-giving hope. More than half of their nation are under the age of 30, 1 in 5 have HIV/AIDS, 1 in 10 have no parents, and only 3% of girls and 5% of boys finish school.

Living Word Missions

Helping the unreached people in the Goz Beïda Region of Chad/Sudan in Africa learn about Jesus through Bible classes. Most don't have a Bible, don't know any Christians, and didn't have a missions group helping them up until now.

Messenger International

Translating materials and training local pastors all over the world so they will be uncompromising followers of Christ who transform the world. All resources and tools that are provided to pastors/leaders come at no cost to them.

Miracle Life Church in Lusaka, Zambia and RHEMA Zambia

Aubrey Monte

THE AMAZIMA PRIMARY SCHOOL

"Wait . . . but that's in Africa. I can't move to Africa!"

That was my initial reaction to the invitation I received to go on my mission in Uganda. I would love to tell you that my whole life I've been dreaming of being a full-time, international missionary. I'd love to say that I've been preparing for this invitation my entire life, never once swaying in my faith, always striving to be prepared to take the Gospel to the ends of the earth . . . but that's not my testimony. I never dreamed God would ask me to do something like this, let alone during the harshest season of my life.

And yet, He did.

I grew up in a Christian household in a small Pennsylvania town. I participated in church (shout out, Victory Family Church!) with child/youth groups sprinkled throughout my upbringing. My little sister, the best person on the whole planet, has Down syndrome and has been the primary catalyst for me to pursue my career in special education. After I graduated with my education degrees, I moved to Florida to teach special education. During my first year of teaching, I accepted a month-long mission trip to Nepal. Even though this was not specifically a "Gospel-spreading" mission trip, God still opened doors and allowed discipleship to happen through me. When I returned home, my heart was on fire for missions. Unfortunately, American culture crept its way back into the forefront of my mind, causing me to forget about that fire. A few months later, a friend recommended a book called Kisses from Katie. It's a book about the founder of Amazima Ministries. God used this book to show me an example of what He can do through anyone who simply says "yes" to following Him anywhere; thus, rekindling my fire for missions!

"Wow, Lord, this is so great! I'll work at my school with the students and co-workers that I love in Florida throughout the school year and then go on a month-long mission trip for You every summer. Yes, great plan, Lord!"

Yeah, no.

The same friend who recommended the book, Kisses from Katie, called me one morning in June 2020. She told me Amazima Ministries started a school and was hiring a special education teacher. She told me that I was going to apply for it (statement, not a suggestion). After my initial reaction, my friend said I should just apply for it and see if it was an opportunity God was calling me to. God has been so gracious and merciful to me in opening my heart to solidly confirm that this was what He wanted me to do and when He wanted me to do it. Despite being in the darkest season I've ever walked through (pandemic, parents' separation, helping to care for terminally-ill grandma while preparing to move across the planet), God still worked in my heart the desire to follow Him—whatever it cost me. It may not have seemed like the “right” time, but God gave me the utmost reassurance that despite everything swirling around me, His timing is truly perfect.

God took me to Uganda in February 2021 to serve at The Amazima School and I've been there ever since. The Lord is using the school to bring the true Gospel of Jesus Christ to the Jinja community and beyond. I am honored to have been called here to help build a Special Education program and teach the children in this community with special needs.

This Special Education program is a massive door God is using to reach much of the Jinja community. Currently, people with disabilities in Uganda are thought to be cursed from witchcraft or as too big of a burden for their families; so, most are either murdered at birth or abused and shamed by their community. For example, one of my students was tortured in his newborn years by his community and then abandoned—left alone on the street—by his birth mother. He was discovered one day by a single woman who decided to keep him and raise him. Amazima's community engagement team unraveled this account, and now this precious child of God is being served in my classroom! Most of the students face horrific challenges by their families and community. However, when they're on Amazima's campus, they're loved, educated, and given meals—all while being led in the Light of Christ. While breaking that stigma is one goal to be achieved, the main purpose of The Amazima Primary school is to “ . . . begin the process of discipleship by introducing Jesus Christ to young vulnerable Ugandan children and giving them the tools needed to follow Him.” This program is not only about helping these kids to be accepted by their community, but also showing them that they are specially created by God and are welcomed in His heavenly community eternally.

Do you see how God made this an opportunity I could not pass up to join Him in the work He's doing in Uganda? This work is being done by God through His hand-picked sponsor team, which makes it possible for me to be the hands and feet of this mission. Together, we make up the vessel He is using to bring His salvation to Uganda through The Amazima School.

Ernest Grant

ACCELERATE CHURCH

The journey to launching Accelerate Church started with Pastor Ernest and his wife, Sarah, asking a series of questions: “What if God wanted to use us to start a new, life-giving church? What if it was both ethnically and economically diverse, and it helped people become closer to God? What if God wanted to use the two of us for such a time as this to bring unity, hope, and healing amid a divided world?”

As they prayed, Pastor Ernest and Sarah asked God for clarity, and He began answering their prayers. Time progressed, the dream started to take shape, and Pastor Ernest and Sarah began forming a launch team that bridged a gap between Camden City and Camden County in Jersey City, New Jersey. For the last decade, Camden City has been considered one of the nation’s most dangerous cities. Although tremendous strides have been taken to ensure public safety, there’s still progress to be made.

Pastor Ernest and Sarah’s dream and prayers for a church were becoming clear. This would be a church in the center city. The surrounding towns would bring in people who would come to know God, find freedom, discover purpose, and make a difference. Pastor Ernest and Sarah grew in conviction that God wanted to create a space where people from contrasting contexts could worship God together. God has abundantly provided for so many of their needs.

He has uniquely used your generosity and donations to allow them to lock into a lease for their launch location, and to purchase all the overhead equipment needed for Accelerate Church!

Leading up to the launch day, Pastor Ernest, Sarah, and others have been able to start the process of loving people both in Camden City and Camden County. They’ve been able to host a variety of outreach events like a Bookbag Drive where they gave away bookbags, school supplies, school uniforms, sneakers, and more. They’ve also been able to host a laundromat drive, water and ice drive, and a gas drive to build relationships and support families and others in the area.

Pastor Ernest and Sarah ask that we pray for Jesus to show up for the people in Jersey City. Pray that His Spirit would deeply impact the members of their team and pray that He would pour into them so they can pour into all the people who visit Accelerate Church. They ask that we pray for every single person to feel the love of God in their midst and that they would be home to the least, the last, the lost, the left out, the looked over, and the left behind.

Accelerate Church officially opened its doors on September 12, 2021! They are so grateful and appreciative of Victory Family Church and are excited that God has called all of us to partner with them to reach people for Jesus throughout South Jersey.

Matthew Gioia

THE PINES CHURCH

"I received what I can only describe as a vision from God."

That's how Matt Gioia, planter of The Pines Church in Orono, Maine, describes his call into church planting.

Before that vision, Matt Gioia and his wife—along with their six kids—had community, security, and influence living in Colorado. Matt had served at John and Lisa Bevere's ministry, Messenger International, for more than fifteen years. "Life was good," Matt says. But he and his wife sensed that a new season of their lives was about to unfold.

It was around this time Matt had his vision. "In this vision, I saw a field that was covered in sun-scorched earth and noticed that there were men standing in front of me looking at the field. One by one, they stepped up to take a closer look. When it was my turn, I thought to myself, 'What could anyone do with this malnourished, neglected field?' It was then I noticed a man standing to my left. I knew in this vision that this man represented the Holy Spirit, who reached down and touched my hand. That touch opened my eyes. I was able to see the field with a fresh perspective."

In this vision, Matt saw a hole in the field with nutrients and moisture just below the malnourished and neglected surface. "I understood that if a seed were to be planted, someone would reap a bountiful, quick harvest," Matt shares. "That's when I heard these words from the Holy Spirit: 'I've allowed you to see this. Now what are you going to do about it?'"

Matt knew the field represented the state of Maine, his childhood home, and that he was being called to plant a church there.

In the middle of the global Covid-19 pandemic, Matt and his wife left their community, security, and influence in Colorado to move across the country and plant The Pines Church in Orono, Maine.

"Through many lunches, dinners, and cups of coffee, we slowly built our team," Matt says.

With that team, Matt and his wife officially launched The Pines Church in March of 2021 at Spotlight Cinemas, a local movie theater. "God has richly blessed us since that day, and we are coming close to outgrowing that facility."

So, why plant a church in Maine?

"If there's a state that needs more churches, Maine is at the top," Matt says. He explains that when it comes to Christians per capita in the states, Maine ranks 49th. "Think about it like this: we send missionaries to places in the world that have a higher concentration of believers."

And if that wasn't reason enough to plant a church in Maine, Matt shares a few other startling statistics: Maine ranks in the top ten for opioid addictions, overdoses, government assistance, and divorce rates and in the top twenty for suicides.

All of that fertile soil is already reaping a harvest.

Matt relates a specific testimony of a young man who has attended The Pines since its launch. "He told me the Holy Spirit had been speaking to him and that he needed to get rid of some things in his life. He wanted me to come to his house so I could pray over him. I wasn't quite sure what to expect, but I was excited to be a part of whatever God was doing in his life."

When Matt showed up at the man's house, it was raining. They met in his garage.

"He told me he used drugs his whole life, and he wanted to be set free once and for all." Matt recalls the man pulling out many drugs and related paraphernalia. "At first, I thought we were breaking some kind of law, but I also recognized the gravity of the moment and was humbled to play a small part in it."

Together, they threw the drugs into a furnace. The young man's hesitancy quickly turned to tears of joy, and he smiled from ear to ear. Matt shares, "I laid hands on him and combined my faith with his that this would be the last time these substances ever touched his hands. We started to cheer and thank God."

But they weren't done.

The man dashed to a refrigerator and started grabbing bottle after bottle of hard liquor and beer. "He couldn't get the tops off fast enough. He handed me a few bottles, and there we were in the pouring rain, dumping out his secret stash of alcohol while tears of joy ran down his face—tears in the rain from a man who had been set free."

Matt celebrates, "I drove away that morning—drenched—but with a heart filled with gratitude for what the Lord had done."

What part does Kingdom Builders play in this? Through Kingdom Builders' support, The Pines Church was able to send a mailer to the more than 60,000 residents within a 60-mile radius, inviting them to their launch service back in March. More than 200 attended that day, including the man Matt visited. Many families continued to visit over the coming weeks, mailer in hand.

Kayla Grasak

VICTORY OUTREACH RESIDENT

"I think fully relying on God is an ongoing process. It's constantly reminding yourself of God's character, what He promises, and trusting Him despite your circumstance."

Kayla Grasak is a 22-year-old Victory Bible School graduate from the Pittsburgh area, and she understands this ongoing process of faith well.

"I have been attending church for as long as I can remember. At one point, I was praying and occasionally reading my Bible, but Jesus wasn't really the Lord of my life . . . I would go to church on Sunday, but during the rest of the week I would live a completely different life."

At a summer camp in 2016, Kayla—who was 16—felt a call to full-time ministry. "One of the pastors speaking asked if anyone felt called to ministry. Even though I wasn't really living for God at the time, I felt the urge to raise my hand," she recalls. "I was confused because I didn't feel qualified."

Despite her confusion, that moment at camp had a lasting impact on Kayla. "It wasn't until a few weeks later that I realized I wanted to stop doing my own thing and live for Christ, surround myself with Godly friends, and start serving in the church."

From there, Kayla got involved in a small group, began serving consistently, and was freed from struggles with anxiety and bad friendships. "Ever since I made that decision, everything has changed."

Originally, Kayla had planned to attend college in Boston, but was instead led to take a year off and spent six months doing mission work in Costa Rica. As the end of her mission work drew near, Kayla began to search out what was next.

"It was around that time that God put Victory Family Church on my heart. I got connected with Pastor Sean Moore and found out about Bible School," she explains. "I never thought I would go to a Bible School, but when I heard the heart and vision behind it, I knew that was what I was supposed to do."

After graduating from Bible School, Kayla began her search for ministry work. "I was trying to figure out what area I should focus on and serve in," she recalls. "Every time I would think about signing up for a Dream Team, I kept getting an uneasy feeling, so God told me to be patient and wait."

It wasn't until the announcement of the Meadville campus that Kayla had a direction.

"I was in a meeting with Pastor Sean and Sarah Moore where I heard their heart and vision for the Vernon and Meadville campuses," she shares. "I knew this is what God had waiting for me. I visited Meadville and immediately fell in love with the people and community, and I wanted to help in any way that I could."

Kayla will be focusing on what life has in store for her in this next season. She has accepted a position in the Victory Family Church Residency Program with an emphasis on Outreach. "I want to take this opportunity to continue developing, get all that God has for me, and grow in the things God has put on my heart. I want to ensure I give God the time and space to develop me in my ministry calling."

Connor Greene

VICTORY STUDENTS/YOUNG ADULT RESIDENT

Connor Greene is a 23-year-old from Birmingham, Alabama. For a few years now, he's been faithfully serving at Victory Family Church, but Connor's journey to Victory was a long and difficult one.

"When I was seven, my parents started to have fights on a consistent basis. One night they had a very big fight," Connor explains. "When my parents were done arguing, my dad called me into the room and told me, at seven years old, that I was now the man of the house."

"I thought being the man of the house meant bottling things up internally, being strong all the time, and not being emotional," he says.

Connor's parents divorced when he was in middle school, leaving him with so much insecurity and depression that he almost committed suicide. But he said that God's grace and mercy kept him alive.

"When I tried to end my life, I was reminded of all the good things God had done in and through my life. I was reminded of the countless people Jesus gave a second chance to in the Bible and thought, 'Why couldn't he give me a second chance, too?'"

"I grew up going to church. I always knew of God, but I didn't truly know who God was," Connor explains. A specific passage from chapter three of Lamentations had stuck with him. "Verses 21-24 speak of God's mercy and faithfulness and how I can put my hope in Him. From that point on, I decided to get to know God better."

During Connor's freshman year of high school, he began attending Church of the Highlands. He got involved in small groups and met some students attending Highlands College, Church of the Highlands' Ministry School. "In my heart, I knew I wanted to be like them because I could see the grace, joy, and favor that was on them. It was then that I began to pursue ministry."

Through a summer internship called “252” (based on Luke 2:52), Connor began to further the calling on his life to be in full-time ministry. He recalls, “There were a bunch of tidbits and teases that showed me what full-time ministry was going to be like, and I couldn’t get enough of it.”

Connor graduated from High School and attended Highlands College in Birmingham. He learned to get serious about his growth and direction in life. That’s when he pursued an internship in ministry. “I reached out to a friend who was working at Victory Family Church. He got me connected with the Victory Internship program.”

In the Students/Young Adults track of Victory’s internship program, Connor served at the New Castle campus. He helped launch SOZO and oversaw Echo’s team and social media ministry.

Connor shares how the internship has prepared him for ministry. “The Victory internship taught me that being in full-time ministry isn’t always fun and games, but I could always find joy in it because I knew that it’s what God has called me to do.”

When considering how the internship has challenged him, he adds, “I was really challenged with the aspect of working and serving. I thought they were two different things, but they’re not. If you’re called to do something, you’re going to serve and give it your all. It has prepared me to not only look at ministry as a job, but to find the joy in it.”

For those considering Victory’s Internship Program, Connor offers a few thoughts. “The Internship Program is for someone who feels called to ministry and wants to take his or her next steps in discovering purpose. The internship is a great place to start if you’ve ever considered full-time ministry. It’s a great place to pursue what God has for you.”

What’s next for Connor in his journey? He has already accepted a role in the Victory Family Church Residency Program, continuing in the Students/Young Adults track. “I want to learn and grow by taking the necessary next steps. One day, I want to launch my own youth ministry.”
